Glucosamine

Is an Important component that increases the body's production of proteoglycans and glycosaminoglycans (GAG's) which promotes and help builds and strengthens the cartilage and tissue that cushions your joints and improves the natural repair process of joints mobility and flexibility.

Chondroitin

A building block of cartilage which helps to increase the hyaluronic acid, an important part of the synovial fluid a major component of the connective tissues, which lubricates, while also being a shock absorber for your joints.

MSM (Methylsulfonylmethane)

An organic source of sulfur found in the body, an antioxidant mineral that is important in the formation of collagen in the joints, which helps repair joint tissue and lowers inflammatory that contributes to swelling and stiffness. it is also thought to be able to reduce and soften scar tissue and break down calcium deposits while improving circulation.
